▶ Long Island police used a forensic artist to sketch what the two victims looked like based on bones found buried at the beach.

The mystery surrounding the Gilgo Beach serial killer deepened yesterday, with new revelations that a man who may have worked as a prostitute was buried among the dead.

In a desperate hope to catch the serial killer or killers using Long Island barrier beaches as a dumping ground for dead bodies, police released sketches yesterday of two of the victims. One of the victims is a woman with long hair,

Building collapses onto bus

♠ 18 injured when crumbling Harlem building collapses ♠ Some people trapped under the rubble

More than a dozen people were injured yesterday when scaffolding erected around a two-story building in West Harlem collapsed and fell onto a passing MTA bus.

Building slated for demolition

NEW YORK. The building was reportedly scheduled for demolition, according to reports, and was originally five stories tall before construction crews knocked it down to two stories. The city Department of Buildings received a complaint about bricks falling off the structure on Sept. 7, according to reports, but a later inspection found no safety violations at the site.

Riders on the Bx15 bus and bystanders — including two police officers were injured in the collapse at the corner of Frederick Douglass Boulevard and 125th Street.

Several people were trapped under the rubble of the building and needed to be pulled to safety by firefighters.

All of the injuries were minor, but 18 people total were hurt, according to the FDNY. Seven of the injured refused medical attention, and 11 were transported to local hospitals.

MTA spokesman Kevin Ortiz said the bus was carrying more than 20 passengers. Ten were injured, he said, including the bus driver.

The Bx15 bus had just finished collecting passengers, Ortiz said, and was about to pull out of the bus stop when the building collapsed.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers

Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers

Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily saleable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad

The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction

Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

NEW YORK. The MTA currently holds the lease to the abandoned subway station.

A source confirmed that the Delancey Underground team met with MTA Chairman Jay Walder earlier this year, but the unfunded project - at an estimated price tag of $20 million - would have to gain community approval before going forward.

The park, dubbed "the Low Line," will be introduced by a group called the Delancey Underground, and would transform the one-acre cavern underneath Delancey Street, known as the Williamsburg Trolley Terminal.

Community Board 3 Chair Dominic Pisciotta said he is thrilled with the proposal.

"I think it's a really great project and could be a great amenity for the community," Pisciotta said. "It could definitely attract visitors and could be a boon for local business."

Architect James Ramsey, a founder of the project, created technology that would channel sunlight from the street using a fiber optic lighting system.

New Approaches to the Treatment of Dermal Neurofibromas in NF1

Presented by NYU Cancer Institute, an NCI-designated Cancer Center

This program will explore surgical procedures used for the treatment and removal of dermal neurofibromas (lesions) developed during neurofibromatosis type 1 (NF1). Although dermal neurofibromas typically form during adolescence, they can also develop anytime in life. Individuals affected by this diagnosis may develop only a few lesions, but in some cases a significant amount has been detected. Since surgical removal is the only treatment currently available to those with dermal neurofibromas, our program will explore the various types of surgery performed, and will present new treatment options in development.

Seven arrested in NYPD crackdown Protester's leg was cut during scuffle, police spokesman admits Violence erupted in Zuccotti Park yesterday morning as Occupy Wall Street protesters clashed with police on day four of their stakeout.

Obama hails end of DADT policy

Obama says gays will 'no longer have to lie' to serve O'Don't ask, don't tell' had been in place since 1993

President Barack Obama yesterday hailed the end of the policy banning gays from serving openly in the U.S. armed forces, as the Pentagon vowed "zero tolerance" for harassment of homosexuals in the military.

"Today, the discriminatory law known as 'don't ask, don't tell' is finally and formally repealed," Obama said in a statement. "As of today, patriotic Americans in uniform will no longer have to lie about who they are in order to serve the country they love."

The repeal went into effect yesterday, ushering in a new era in the U.S. armed forces. The law had allowed gay men and 14,500 women to serve in the military only if they kept their sexual orientation a secret. They faced the threat of being kicked out of the military if they were open about their homosexuality.

Obama last December signed legislation to repeal the policy known as "don't ask, don't tell," which had been passed by Congress and signed into law in 1993 under then-President Bill Clinton.

Defense Secretary Leon Panetta made it clear that the U.S. military would not tolerate mistreatment of gays in the ranks.

"This is a historic day for the Pentagon and for the nation," he said. "We have a zero tolerance with regards to harassment," Panetta told a Pentagon briefing.

Gay rights groups for years denounced the law and called its end a important milestone in the fight against anti-gay discrimination. Some have compared its demise to the integration of the U.S. armed forces. REUTERS

Google+ finally gets around to the plus

NEW YORK. Google Inc. trotted out the latest improvements to "Google+" yesterday, expanding and ramping up its 3-month-old social network to try and take on Facebook for Web surfers' time online.

The Internet giant integrated its search engine into the social network and expanded its "Hangouts" video-chat feature to allow mobile use and broadcasting

The company said on its official blog its well-received Hangouts feature — where up to nine people can link up and chat with a user on video — will be available on camera equipped smartphones powered by its own Android software. Support for Apple Inc. iOS devices "is coming soon," it added. REUTERS

Turner: Murdoch will be forced out

News titans fight it out in the headlines Former CNN owner says News Corp. boss should have known Billionaire Ted Turner said News Corp. Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Rupert Murdoch will probably have to leave the helm of his media company after a phone-hacking scandal that began at one of its newspapers.

"I think he's going to have to step down," Turner, 72, said in an interview on Bloomberg Television. "He hadn't survived anything like this. This is serious."

News Corp. has come under fire this year over allegations its News of the World tabloid hacked into the voice mails of murder victims and paid police for stories. The public outcry forced the company to close the 168-year-old London newspaper and drop its $12.2 billion bid for full control of British Sky Broadcasting Group.

Murdoch and his son James, deputy chief operating officer at News Corp., were called before U.K. parliament in July to answer questions about the scandal. The elder Murdoch's statements that he didn't know about phone-hacking or police payments aren't sufficient, Turner said.

"Well, he should have known," said Turner, who sold his Turner Broadcasting — owner of CNN and TBS — to Time Warner in 1996. "He was chairman of the board. He's responsible. I took responsibility when I ran my company. You never heard me say, 'Well, I didn't know." BLOOMBERG

Keeping up with the Joneses' garbageman

• People with lower social standing convince us what to buy, a new study reveals Researchers call this phenomenon the 'low status user affect'

You think A-list celebs and global sports stars flaunting the latest tech gadgets makes you want to buy them? Well, think again! According to a new study, it may be your office janitor or your neighborhood's garbageman who most affects what you to buy.

Marketing experts from the U.S. and Israel claim that seeing a desirable item in the hands of someone socially "inferior" to us compels us to run out and buy it - because we're afraid of being looked down upon. They label this phenomenon as the "low status user effect."

"It may be the janitor who makes you want to run out and purchase the latest gadget," researchers Edith Shaley, of the Israel Institute of Technology, and Vicki G Morwitz, of New York University, stated in their paper, published in the Journal of Consumer Research.

In one study, research participants were more interested in purchasing a swanky T-shirt when a grocery packer wore it, as opposed to a college student.

Researchers say their findings come with one caveat: They proved true only when participants believed tech gizmos to be an important part of their "People naturally and automatically make comparisons," lead co-author of study Morwitz told Metro. "We try to find out things about ourselves by comparing to the other. Downward comparisons proved to be surprisingly powerful."

"Consumers from a lower socioeconomic status are not usually considered ideal influencers." researchers added.

The other judges

L.A. Reid on the sheer number of wannabe stars:

"We're seeing more talent in a day than I could see perhaps in a year in my job as a record executive. We are auditioning sometimes 50, 60 contestants a day. I may see 50, 60 in a two-year period. The numbers certainly increases the opportunities for us to discover the next generation of stars — and we are finding them, too. We are finding artists, contestants that we really believe to be true stars of tomorrow."

"I've been in that exact place.
That's how I got my start 10 years ago, through that exact audition process on 'Popstars,' and I know exactly what they are going through. I come from a different place of compassion and understanding."

NICOLE SCHERZINGER, ON EMPATHIZING WITH CONTESTANTS

Paula Abdul on the caliber of singers auditioning:

"[The contestants] understand the savvy business of the record business, of having to have your own definitive, unique something special that is not copycat to other artists. And they come in, and it's that feeling that I've wanted to feel as a judge even through all of the years of 'American Idol,' that I'm discovering something I have never seen before. And it's not just about having that brilliant voice. It's about all of the other parts that fill the gap — that special, unique, bold and daring style."

Defining an 'X Factor'

O Simon Cowell looks for the next generation of singing stars on his new reality competition ◆ Why this isn't an 'American Idol' simon Cowell is calling it now: Fox's "The X Factor" is going to be a huge hit. "You don't enter something for the silver medal. You do it because you want to be No. 1," the ever-confident reality TV producer/judge says of his expectations to not only meet the success of "American Idol" with his

There's a lot on the line for the new talent competition, another singing contest Cowell has imported from Britain. The winner is guaranteed $5 million in cash in addition to a recording contract and a Pepsi-sponsored commercial to run during the Super Bowl. "If I didn't think that the talent was worth $5 million in America, I wouldn't have made the show in America," the infamously direct Brit says.

Despite its pedigree, Cowell insists that this is not an "Idol" clone. "The X Factor" is open to both solo artists and groups, ages 12 and up. Contestants will be broken up into four categories: girls ages 12 through 30, boys ages 12 through 30, individuals over 30, and groups. Also, the judging panel — including Cowell, "Idol" mate Paula Abdul, former Pussycat Doll Nicole Scherzinger and record producer L.A. Reid
— will serve as mentors.

The "adorkable" new girl moving in with three dudes after a harsh breakup has her own theme song — "Who's that girl? It's Jess!" - and does this goofy hubba-hubba thing with her glasses (thick dark frames, of course) when she sees a cute guy. At any moment, the twee factor could go sickeningly saccharine - but Zooey Deschanel gives the character a smart quirkiness, never playing her as a vulnerable little girl lost. ### Dancing between liberation and disaster

Seminal contemporary works are on view at NYLA through Sunday

Bill T. Jones, the much-decorated director of Chelsea's newly minted New York Live Arts, first streaked across the city's dance firmament nearly 35 years ago. He has since won every award the country confers on its artists, including two Tonys.

His troupe, now the resident company at NYLA, this week shows five early works that position him and his late partner Arnie Zane (who died of AIDS in 1988) as significant figures in dance history. "Body Against Body," a collection of dances made between 1977 and 1982, casts younger company members in roles originally performed by Jones and Zane, revealing that the pieces,

In "Monkey Run Road," tall Talli Jackson and more compact Erick Montes check each other out as they scribble tight phrases in the air or pose quietly. The two men test each other, grappling like wrestlers, their actions exquisitely calibrated against Helen Thorington's score.

The lighter group work "Continuous Replay" supplements the nine-member troupe with guest stars from across the moderndance world. Beginning naked, they add layers of clothing as they perform minimalist, mechanistic gestures in corridors of light, to a collage score by John Oswald. The first program concludes with Jennifer Nugent and Paul Matteson's stunning rendition of "Valley Cottage," another intense duet to Thorington's music.

Thirty years on, the dances retain their brilliance and intensity. Catch them if you can.

Love and the macabre

Gus Van Sant's latest project mirrors the mortality-centric 1971 film 'Harold and Maude' Why he prefers to work in Portland, Ore.

No stranger to films about troubled young people and tragedy, Gus Van Sant seems like the perfect director for "Restless," about emotionally damaged teen Enoch (newcomer Henry Hopper) who falls in love with Annabel, a girl with terminal cancer (Mia Wasikowska). Set in Van Sant's favorite city, Portland, Ore., the young couple meets because of Enoch's penchant for attending memorial services. That may sound a lot like the 1971 cult classic "Harold and Maude" - minus the massive age difference between the leads - and Van Sant would agree with you.

How did this project come to

It was sent by [the production company] Imagine to my agent. Ron Howard had planned to direct it, and then I think he became unable to so they were looking for a director. I read it and thought about it and read it again and just thought, yeah this would be kind of amazing.

I'm sure "Harold and Maude" came up while you were making it.

Yeah, it came up quite soon. And Jason [Lew], the writer, had never seen it according to him. I had seen it. I thought the similarities were really striking. I also tried to stay away from it until we were finished shooting it, because I didn't want to have that become the mix of what we were up to.

You've set many of your films in Portland. Is it just the appeal of working near

for one thing, and it's a company town. It's kind of like you're living in a big Detroit, where everything that's around you is related to your business. Everything just revolves around two or three industries, whereas Portland has none of that. There's just a tiny bit of this sort of art movies.

Portland might be the new La-La Land

A couple of years ago, Daniel Baldwin declared he would bring a film industry to Portland. How did you take that? Was that Stephen Baldwin? Daniel? God, there's more Baldwins. No, many people have said that. There's always been sort of Hollywood straying up to Portland. But the whole romance of having there be like a Paramount Picturesstyle studio in Portland - it's a pretty small city. Every now and then, somebody from Hollywood will proclaim that.

Ryan Gosling takes a spin

... and ruins some rims in preparation for his role as a stunt driver in 'Drive' • Why it never would have been made without the help of REO Speedwagon

Tor a guy who plays a stunt driver that moonlights as a getaway driver in "Drive," Ryan Gosling says he didn't get a whole lot of time behind the wheel in the film. "I drove myself to set and I drove myself home," he says with a laugh. But seriously, though. "I went to driving school, and I did a lot of the driving. But the cool stuff, I didn't do," he says. "But it was one of

"We set out to make a violent John Hughes movie, and I think that's what we did."

the best prep experiences I've ever had, because I'd basically just show up to this big parking lot, and there'd be a new Camaro or a new Mustang and we'd just ride it to the rims until it was smoking or it wouldn't go anymore, then we'd just go home and they'd tow it away and call us when it was fixed." "Drive" was something of a meeting of the minds for Gosling and the film's director, Nicolas Winding Refn. "We set out to make a violent John Hughes movie, and I think that's what we did," Gosling says. "This movie wouldn't have happened if REO Speedwagon hadn't come on the radio during a drive the actor and director shared one night while discussing the project]. So something happened in that car, and Nicolas and I were sharing the same dream and we spent the whole movie trying to figure out how that was possible."

Gosling and Winding

Refn's shared dream apparently worked out great, as the actor and director are jumping into more projects together already. They're now developing a remake of "Logan's Run" - a projpreviously kicked around by a number of filmmakers. And they're getting ready to shoot a film about Thai kickboxing.

With "Drive" already getting such positive reactions wherever they take it, there's even been talk of a sequel - even if it was originally just in jest. "We were joking for a while - but maybe it's not a joke - that it would be a prequel called 'Drive 2' where it's about Bernie [Albert Brooks] and Ron Perlman," he says.

When Albert Brooks goes too far

As a producer on "Drive" as well as the star, Ryan Gosling played a major role in shaping the finished product with director Nicolas Winding Refn — which meant making some tough decisions. "The hardest scene to cut was the scene where Albert Brooks actually chokes a guy out on camera and he passes out. That was amazing," Gosling remembers. "I talked to Albert that night, and I said, 'Hey Albert, how'd the scene go?' And he goes, 'Ah ... I actually knocked the guy out. I choked him out. Is that bad?' You watch the guy's eyes roll into the back of his head and he falls to the floor. Everyone thought he was acting, but he wasn't."

▶ The best footwear: Paul Smith - His collection was filled with covetable tailored jackets and trousers in a range of fits. But his shoes are what really stole the show. They came in all manner of color (neon yellow?) and texture (ponyskin, suede, leather, you name it) and may be a good alternative for women who want to add trendy colors to their wardrobes in small doses.

Dawson and Middleton

The biggest society coup: Temperley's Pippa Middleton get - P-Middy caused a small frenzy when she perched her Google-busting bottom front row next to Rosario Dawson at Temperley. Designer Alice Temperley looked to the elegance of Grace Kelly a la "High Society" and

The new name to know: J.W. Anderson — The Brit has only been designing women's wear for about a year, but he's already on the tongues of nearly every editor. The biggest selling point: Unusually constructed clothing that boasts rarefied craftsmanship at affordable prices - as seen on his patchworked leather and cotton jackets and trousers. But he's still got room for growth, made clear by unfortunate dresses made out of cardigan sweaters.

Why whole grains matter

OK, seriously — put away the white bread Why choosing whole grains is so good for your health

Appropriately, September the northern hemisphere's traditional harvest time - is designated National Whole Grains Month.

"A whole grain has the perfect combination of nutrients to allow for easy digestion and assimilation by the body," says Cravenutritionist Health.com Kendra Strasburg, CHHC, AADP. "Whole grains are an excellent source of essential enzymes, iron, dietary fiber, vitamin E and the B-complex vitamins. The majority of a grain's nutrients are found in the germ and bran, and without these in the grain, it becomes more difficult to digest."

It's the bran and germ that are missing in refined grains.

"Whole grains contain three main components the germ, endosperm and says Strasburg. bran," "Combined, they contain a nice balance of fats, proteins and carbohydrates to allow for stable blood sugar levels and slow, easy digestion, sustaining energy levels for a long period of time."

Still, whole grains contain carbohydrates and calories, and a healthier diet isn't about adding more - it's about taking the refined grains away.

"Just because you're having brown rice or wholewheat pasta, that doesn't mean you get to eat twice as much," warns Nutrition Diva podcaster Monica Reinagel, MS, LN. "Even if you're choosing whole grains, you still need to watch portion sizes and number of servings."

How much should you eat?

FDA guidelines recommend six to 11 servings of grains per day, at least half of them whole grains. Just how much is one serving?

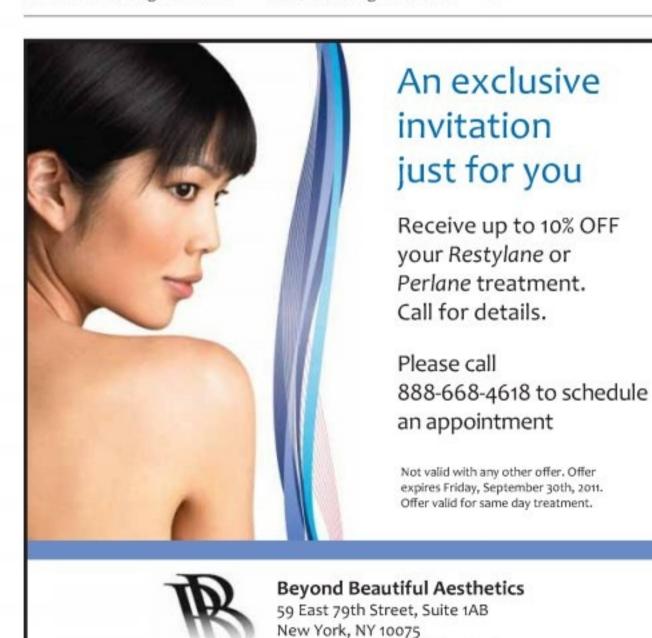

- 1/2 cup of cooked oatmeal
- 1/2 cup cooked 100 percent whole-grain pasta
- 1/2 cup cooked brown rice, quinoa or whole-grain barley
- 1 regular slice of 100 percent whole-grain bread
- 1 cup of whole-grain, ready-to-eat cereal

Is it normal, or is it time to get help?

ere's another edition of "Is it normal?" questions from readers. Concerned about whether your behavior or thinking is normal? Then send your questions my way!

Is it normal that I get freaked out at the thought of wearing street clothes on my bed?

Yes, totally normal. After a day of running around the city you'll pick up dirt and grime, other peoples' bodily fluids and unidentifiable things that simply are disgusting — none of which belong in a person's bed. Freaking out is a healthy coping mechanism.

Q&A

I sometimes fantasize about kissing people other than my husband. Is this normal?

Yes, but if it starts to distract you from your relationship, it's a problem. If you call your husband by someone else's name, that's also a problem.

Is it normal to fantasize about my house burning down

because I want to start over?

No, it is not normal, nor is it productive. A strong desire to start over is normal, so spare being an arsonist and find a healthier way to do it. Find out what you want out of life; then, come up with a sensible strategy to achieve it.

My wife never wants to have sex with me. Is that normal?

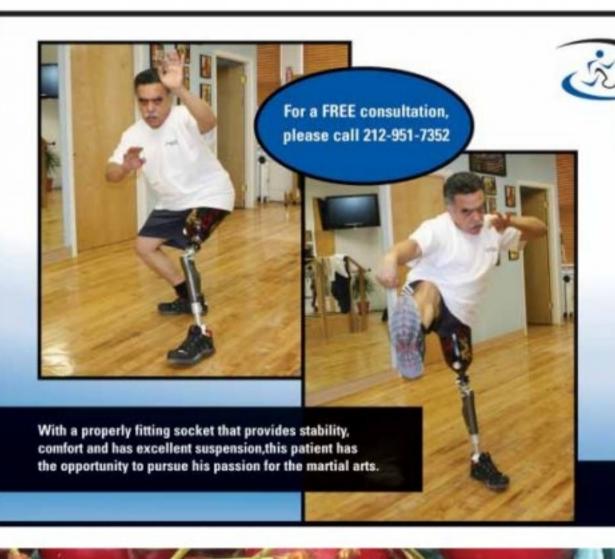

No, it is not normal or healthy for the relationship. It's symptomatic of problems in your relationship. Find out why it isn't happening, get help if need be and hopefully introduce intimacy.

Is it normal that I get anxious entering crowded gatherings or social settings?

Yes, it is normal. If it's debilitating or you avoid social situations altogether, it's a more serious concern and warrants help. The good news is that social anxiety responds well to therapy and you can learn to face those crowds with poise and calm.

Cheers to beer in Philly

The city calls itself 'America's best beer-drinking city' for a reason • And things are only getting sudsier n recent years, Philadelphia has established itself as one of the best ■ beer cities in the country — a claim that will be further solidified this fall and beyond as a handful of new breweries and brewpubs open their doors:

The Farmers' Cabinet

Perhaps the most anticipated opening of the year is the nano-brewery within The Farmers' Cabinet. With head brewer Terry Hawbaker potentially pouring his house-brewed beers by the end of 2011, patrons are readying themselves to choose between even more options in a bar that already serves one of the East Coast's largest selections of crafts and imports.

1113 Walnut St.

215-923-1113 www.thefarmerscabinet.com

Iron Hill Brewery & Restaurant

The East Coast's fastestgrowing chain of brewpubs will open its ninth location in Philadelphia's Chestnut Hill neighborhood in December. One beer sure to be on tap: Pig Iron Porter, which took home a gold medal from the 2010 Great American Beer Festival.

8400 Germantown Ave. 215-948-5600

McKenzie Brew House

By November, the western Philadelphia suburbs will have three McKenzie Brew House locations to choose from. The new brewpub in Berwyn will expand the chain's capacity to brew the beers that have earned it eight Great American Beer Festival medals.

324 Swedesford Rd., Berwyn, www.mckenzie brewhouse.com

Tired Hands Brewing Co.

The beers at Tired Hands Brewing Co., scheduled to open in December, reflect a traditional Belgo-French vision by comprising mostly farmhouse ales - with the inclusion of some hopforward American ales for variety.

The left spews vicious slurs

Lying attacks on the Tea Party movement have disturbingly increased in recent days. Liberals are afraid of the Tea Party movement not only because the policies it advocates are in sharp contrast to their desire to grow government, but also because every day, more Americans realize that they are actually Tea Partiers themselves. People of all races, creeds and colors are carrying signs that say "stop spending" and "balance the budget." They used to be known as mathematicians and accountants; today the progressive liberals call them terrorists and racists.

Horoscope

IIP Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Even if you can't totally pay off a financial obligation, it's to your advantage to try to ameliorate a portion of it.

Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Go ahead and assert yourself for everybody's collective benefit, not just for your interests alone. It's to everyone's advantage to exert a group effort rather than making points with merely one voice.

M Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Nobody is likely to be lucky in getting others to hear only one voice today, but getting others to speak out collectively could be to everyone's advantage.

₹ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. If you encounter a person whom you were once very close to but have been somewhat estranged lately, act friendly. It would be to your advantage to get together again.

Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Be careful not to become demanding in a delicate development that requires cooperation. If you are arrogant, you'll have to fend for yourself. Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. lt would be asking for trouble to demand cooperation of others if you find their behavior to be arrogant. You can't control how they comport themselves, so set an example.

H Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Move extremely cautiously with your financial affairs. Don't take any risk, or encourage others to do so. Losses could be greater than usual.

T Aries March 21-April 19. If you feel compelled to make a decision under pressure, be careful, because your judgment might not be up to its usual standards. Don't let others usurp your independent thinking.

Taurus April 20-May 20. Use your common sense and don't attempt to do something on your own that takes two pairs of mitts to handle. Don't put yourself in jeopardy trying to prove how strong you are.

II Gemini May 21-June 20. Guard against inclinations to take any comments seriously that you know should be treated as jokes. If you are the butt of a harmless tease, laugh harder than your friends.

Gancer June 21-July 22. People in general, including you, could have low flash points. Nobody expects you to be perfect at all times, but even if you can't control someone else's behavior, rein in your own.

Ω Leo July 23-Aug. 22. If something annoys you, instead of bringing it out in the open you might choose to grumble and growl under your breath, causing others to wonder what's wrong, BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Plenty of work to do for Giants

The Giants may have vanquished the Rams on Monday night, but if they play the Eagles the same choppy way, they're sure to fall on their collective faces.

Head coach Tom Coughlin said as much as his team prepared on a short work-prep week against arguably their most bitter of rivals. While noting he'd take the win because it evened the Giants (1-1) with Philadelphia and Dallas, Coughlin said New York still needs to improve on most every facet.

"We have a lot of work to do and we are a work in progress," Coughlin said via conference call. "There are things from a technical standpoint that we need to work on. It's not as much cohesion but the aspect of being in position to make plays."

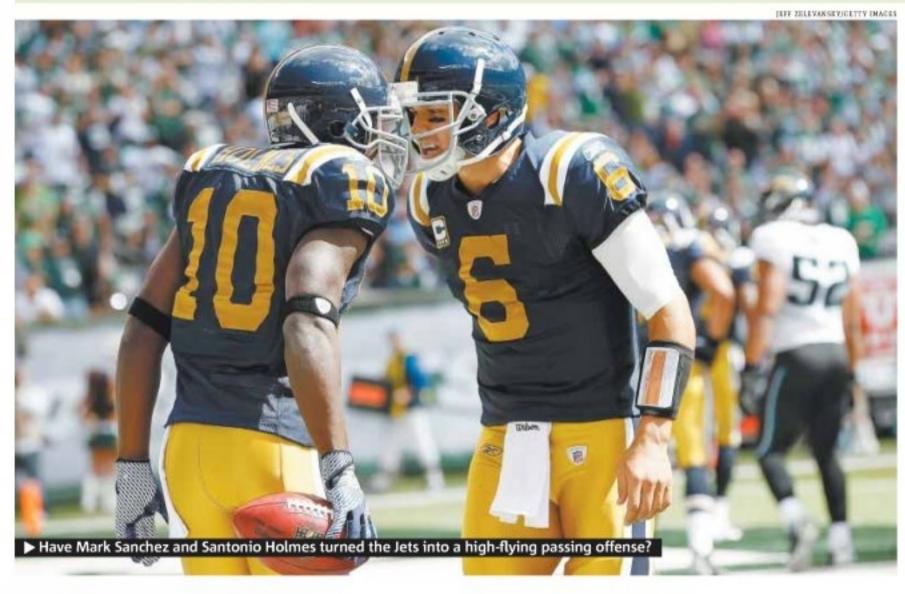

Perhaps the biggest worry — besides the mounting injuries — is the secondary. Sam Bradford shredded them for 331 yards, and if Mike Vick passes all his baseline concussions tests, the Eagles will pose an even bigger threat.

Vick has far better downfield weapons at his disposal, including DeSean Jackson, so if Bradford and the unknown Danario Alexander (three catches for 122 yards) can light up Big Blue, Coughlin shudders at the thought of a fully intact Philadelphia squad. © TONY WILLIAMS

♠ Are the Jets no longer a 'Ground and Pound' offense? ♠ Tomlinson, Greene have 99 total yards ♠ Sanchez, receivers stepping up to fill void

The "Ground and Pound" isn't sound.

After churning out a combined 146 rushing yards in their first two games, the knee jerk reaction around the Jets is that something is seriously wrong with their "Ground and Pound" of-

So far, the Jets running game has looked nothing like the offense that finished atop the AFC East — and fourth in the conference — in rushing last year.

There's no reason for too much concern quite yet.

"I think we're close. I think we are. I think we're getting better each week, and quite honestly, when you go back and really look at it, it's not like we're humming on all cylinders to start the season," head coach Rex Ryan said.

head coach Rex Ryan said.
"We get a little bit better each week and we then finally find our groove. Our confidence in our running game will take off."

the ground game isn't as crucial this season as last year, especially with the maturation of quarterback Mark Sanchez.

Sanchez is throwing for 111.5 more yards per game through the first two games this year compared to last year, which more than compensates for the deficiencies in the ground game.

With wide receivers Plaxico Burress and Derrick Mason added to this year's team, the targets for Sanchez are far more attractive this time around.

Report: Mangold will miss 2 weeks

The MRI results are in and they weren't good — Nick Mangold has the dreaded high-ankle sprain.

Mangold still wants to play Sunday at Oakland, but that appears unlikely to happen, coach Rex Ryan said.

"He's very iffy," Ryan said. "I don't think it looks very good as far as him playing."

ESPN reports Mangold will at least two weeks and maybe a month.

Rookie Colin Baxter will start at center if Mangold doesn't make the trip. Mark Sanchez had never even taken a snap from Baxter until Sunday against Jacksonville. © METRO

In the news Boeheim: I love New York Count Syracuse basketball coach Jim Boeheim as not being in favor of conference expansion. And yes, that includes the ACCbound Orange. ### LET'S SPICE UP CONFERENCE REALIGNMENT

Bored yet with realignment in college athletics? It was palatable a bit in August when nothing was happening in the sports world. But now, with faux news developing seemingly every day, it has gotten incredibly tiresome.

klahoma wants out of the crumbling Big 12, but it has demands. Texas is flirting with the ACC, but the Big Ten really wants the Longhorns, and yes, the Pac-12 probably makes the most sense.

The key to it all? Football and money. Nothing else matters.

anyone in

New York

If you wish you had a handy guide to the madness, look no further. We present to you a celebrity version of college football realignment:

► West Virginia (Cameron Diaz): The Mountaineers are a party school best known for burning couches in public. Desperate to leave the sinking ship that is the Big East, WVU reportedly applied for membership to the ACC and SEC. And was denied.

Fexas (Mila Kunis): It has a rich football history, but the school has significantly blown up in recent years thanks to Colt McCoy guiding the Texas to the title game and the creation of the Longhorn Network. Everyone wants Texas. The Big Ten, the ACC and the Pac 12 are all in play, but a move would mean it'd have to give up the lucrative Longhorn Network. So does Texas try to keep the crumbling Big 12 together, or go independent?

▶ Missouri (Kendra Wilkinson): There's not much to love about Missouri football, but it has two things going for it: the Kansas City and St. Louis TV markets. That's the only reason the SEC is interested in Missouri.

▶ Rutgers (Anna Kournikova): Another school trying to leave the Big East. Rutgers — which has an inflated sense of self worth; no surprise; they are located in New Jersey — would be attractive if anyone in New York (No. 1 TV market) cared about the Scarlet Knights, but that's not the case.

▶ Oklahoma (Megan Fox): The Sooners, with their rich football history, are coveted by the Pac-12. The Sooners are title contenders almost every year, but Oklahoma is not without flaws — it must bring along little brother Oklahoma State.

Red Sox fan? Better wear some pinstripes

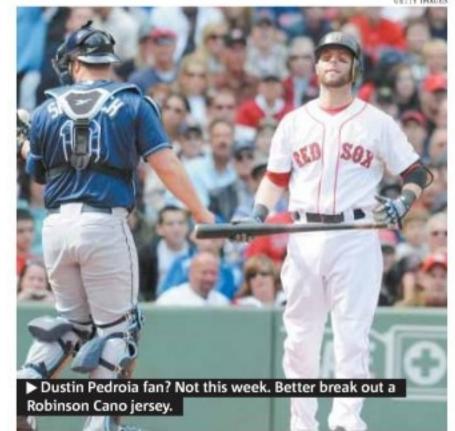

Every night at Fenway Park, a loud derisive cheer rings out about the Yankees — sometimes laced with profanity. Then there are those very rare times when a Red Sox fan is forced to root for the Yankees.

Sox fans better buy some pinstripes as Tampa Bay faces the Yankees seven times over the final week.

"It's not too often that you see that," Johnny Damon, who's played for all three teams, said before last night's game at Yankee Stadium. "But they're going to have to root for the Yankees — whether they like it or not, whether they admit it."

Damon was able to say that because of the recent damage the Rays have inflicted on the Red Sox. On Aug. 7, the Rays were 10 games out of the wild card. Since then they've gone 26-13 over their last 39 games.

Tampa Bay swept three at home and then took three of four in Fenway Park last week, knocking the deficit from seven to two games.

"You just can tell with their fans and how quiet the place was," Damon said. "Even when they were scoring runs this past weekend. It was like we need to score more, we need to do that kind of stuff."

O LARRY FLEISHER

The Rays have .670 winning percentage since Aug. 7. That includes winning six of seven against the Red Sox this past week.

Buildings are ditching the doorman

With rents climbing, the premium for attended lobbies is shrinking

In Manhattan, a doorman is a marker of luxury and status. But as rents rise in a tough economy, tenants are increasingly willing to go without that friendly face to screen visitors and accept packages if it means staying in New York's most exclusive borough, industry experts said.

Data released by real estate consulting firm and brokerage Nancy Packes Inc., in collaboration with StreetEasy.com, shows that the premium that renters are willing to pay for doormen has shrunk dramatically in the past two years.

Packes attributed this change to the current combination of sky-high rents and continued economic uncertainty.

"On one level, it's simple economics," she says.

"Steep increases in rent in the last two years hurt the people who want to remain in Manhattan."

But there are also demographic changes afoot.

"There's been a real shift in the nature of work forces, with many more people coming from creative industries," Packes explains. "They lead a less formal lifestyle, and for them, full service is less important. They're looking for older buildings that are more in keeping with their personalities."

KATHERINE CLARKE

TheRealDeal.com is a daily blog and monthly magazine covering real estate in the New York metro area.

Rising rents

While the sales market has suffered during the downturn, rentals are recovering. According to a five-year market report last month by Citi Habitats, the average rent for Manhattan below 96th Street was $3,694 in June, up 8.7 percent from $3,399 in the same month of 2009 and nearing 2007's average of $3,724.

In effect, a full-time doorman is one of the first amenities to go. Renters get more space for their money in unattended buildings, says GieFaan Kim, an associate broker at Keller Williams NYC. In non-doorman buildings: "Prices are better; and these days, prices are a big issue. ... [Renters] say, 'I could do without a doorman [or] a gym, as long as the numbers make sense.""

Eczema Psoriasis Rosacea Rashes

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside and leaving the actual cause untreated. Here are a few examples:

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried products with Benzoyl Peroxide, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60. TRUE EVIDENCE that we are helping people.

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air):

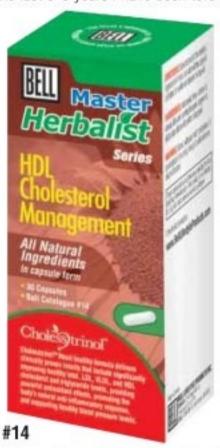

To my surprise, after taking Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. I was skeptical about Bell Snoring & Sleep Apnea Eze #23. After using it for 3 weeks my wife says there is no more snoring or gasping for breath or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with and can get up with no restrictions. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. You will be overjoyed with the results. Wayne Burse, 63, Beamsville, ON Bell is helping people everywhere.
